Eastmanosteus ("Eastman's bone") is a fossil genus of dunkleosteid placoderms. It was closely related to the giant Dunkleosteus, but differed from that genus in size, in possessing a distinctive tuberculated bone ornament, a differently shaped nuchal plate and a more zig-zagging course of the sutures of the skull roof. Species of Eastmanosteus had powerful jaws with sharp cutting edges and ... Latest breaking news, including politics, crime and celebrity. Find stories, updates and expert opinion.
